SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 87

Senator Santiesteban offered the following resolution:

WHEREAS, On March 26, 1913, the 33rd Legislature of the State of Texas passed Senate Bill 183, which appropriated $15,000 to create the State School of Mines and Metallurgy, to be located in or near the city of El Paso, "for the purpose of teaching the scientific knowledge of mining and metallurgy"; Governor O. B. Colquitt signed the bill into law on April 16, 1913; and

WHEREAS, On April 13, 1914, the Board of Regents of The University of Texas established the State School of Mines and Metallurgy and authorized the offering of classes for the 1914-15 academic year; 27 students enrolled that first year; and

WHEREAS, During the following seven decades the State School of Mines and Metallurgy flourished beside the Rio Grande and grew from a small state mining school into a major campus of the state's largest university system; and

WHEREAS, A progression of name changes reflected its growth and changing mission: to the College of Mines and Metallurgy in 1920; to Texas Western College in 1949; and finally, in 1967, to The University of Texas at El Paso, the name under which it now takes pride as the second oldest academic component of The University of Texas System; and

WHEREAS, The University of Texas at El Paso today provides a wide range of educational opportunities to its 15,000 students through academic programs in the colleges of Business Administration, Education, Engineering, Liberal Arts, Nursing and Allied Health, and Science, which offer the baccalaureate degree in over 65 fields as well as 46 master's degree programs and a doctoral degree program; and

WHEREAS, The University of Texas at El Paso is a leading force in the enhancement of economic and human development in the Texas-Mexico border region through its research activities; this is exemplified by the university's designation as a Minority Research Center of Excellence by the National Science Foundation and by cooperative research agreements with Mexican universities and technological institutes in Northern Mexico; and

WHEREAS, The students, faculty, staff, alumni, and many friends of The University of Texas at El Paso are proud of the 75-year history of the university and the significant educational, cultural, and economic contributions it has made over the years to the El Paso community, the Texas-Mexico border area, the far West Texas region, the State of Texas, and the nation; and

WHEREAS, As a fitting tribute, a year-long Diamond Jubilee celebration is planned to commemorate the founding of the university; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the 71st Legislature of the State of Texas honor The University of Texas at El Paso on the occasion of its 75th anniversary and commend the many individuals who have contributed to the success and greatness of the university; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That an official copy of this resolution be prepared for display at The University of Texas at El Paso as an expression of esteem and best wishes from the Texas Senate and House of Representatives.

The resolution was read.

On motion of Senator Santiesteban and by unanimous consent, the resolution was considered immediately and was adopted viva voce vote.
